State Art Collection - Established in 1967 as one of the first programs of the South Carolina Arts Commission, the State Art Collection has grown to include over 400 works of art by contemporary South Carolina artists. Works for the collection are selected by a seven-member advisory committee which makes recommendations to the Commission for purchase. Works from the State Art Collection are available for loan to art museums, state agencies, art galleries and other arts organizations and public and private organizations for the purpose of public exhibition or public display. Living artists who are native or resident South Carolinians or who have done significant work while residing in the State are eligible. Deadline is biennial.

Slide Registry - The Slide Registry is an unjuried multi-media image bank of slides by over 1000 in-state and out-of state artists that serves as a resource for commercial galleries, interior designers, architects, museums, arts councils, universities and colleges, corporations, state and federal agencies and others wishing to identify artists and works for the purpose of exhibition, purchase, commission, publication and education. Files are maintained on each artist included in the registry. Viewing of the Slide Registry is by appointment only. Deadline for submissions is January 31, annually.

Percent For Art - Enabled by a 1981 Budget and Control Board Resolution, this program encourages state facilities to set aside 1/2 of 1 percent of the total project budget for new construction or renovation of state facilities for the purchase of art works. Percent for Art Projects are administered through the S.C. Arts Commission and the Slide Registry is one source for Percent for Art purchases in South Carolina.

Exhibitions - The S.C. Arts Commission and its partner organizations mount significant exhibitions of works by contemporary South Carolina artists as a means of promoting South Carolina artists both in-state and out-of-state. A Triennial exhibition is mounted once every three years with consecutive thematic shows during the interim years.

Southern Circuit Artists

Susan Mogul
I STARE AT YOU AND DREAM

Filmed in Mogul's Los Angeles neighborhood, I Stare at You and Dream is a slice of life melodrama that journeys to the core of interrelationships. The filmmaker and her friends negotiate their desires, each other, their pasts and their present. Frank and funny, each person's struggles, wounds and romantic entanglements are gradually revealed in the context of their everyday lives. Howard Rosenberg's review in the Los Angeles Times states, "Mogul has a talent for swiftly getting you interested in people about whom you know nothing..."

Robby Henson
PHARAOH'S ARMY

In this Civil War drama, a Union Army Captain (Chris Cooper) leads his rag-tag calvary troop up a misty creek to a remote farm to steal enemy livestock. The farm is run by Sarah Anders (Patricia Clarkson) whose husband is away fighting for the Confederate Army. Far away from the great armies and battlefields, a very private civil war erupts. The Captain and Sarah are forced to make choices and come to terms with their divided loyalties. This story was adapted from an Appalachian oral-history legend.

James Duesing
LAW OF AVERAGES

James Duesing mixes humor and complex content with computer animation. His stories are a series of hyper scenes where only pertinent action is portrayed. This "Theater of Images" approach plays off underground comics' sociopolitical observations, film noir, and contemporary art. Duesing's work has been exhibited and televised throughout the world.

Jem Cohen
LOST BOOK FOUND

The result of over five years of shooting on New York streets, Lost Book Found melds documentary and narrative approaches into a complex meditation of city life. The piece revolves around a mysterious notebook filled with obsessive listings of places, objects, and incidents. The project won the 1996 Video Competition at the Locarno International Film Festival, and shared the top prize at the 1996 Bonn Videonale.

Alan Berliner
NOBODY'S BUSINESS

Director Alan Berliner takes on his reclusive father as the reluctant subject of this poignant and graceful study of family history and memory. What emerges is a uniquely cinematic biography that finds both humor and pathos in the swirl of conflicts and affections that bind father and son. Nobody's Business has been shown at more than 20 film festivals worldwide and is a winner of eight prizes and awards at international film festivals including Berlin, Jerusalem, Switzerland, Florida and San Francisco.

Marcia Rock
DAUGHTERS OF THE TROUBLES:

BELFAST STORIES
Geraldine O'Regan married at the age of 17 because, for her, there were no options. Today, after 25 years of violence, filmmaker Marcia Rock reveals a very different Belfast. Daughters of the Troubles: Belfast Stories, a one-hour documentary aired on public television, traces the intersecting lives of Ms. O'Regan and May Blood, a Protestant, as they work to piece together their shattered lives and rebuild a future for themselves and their families.

Architecture and Design Residencies Serve S. C.'s Elementary Schools

For each of the past eight years, the South Carolina Arts Commission and LS3P Architects, a comprehensive and dynamic design firm located in Charleston, have funded four two-week architecture and design residencies at elementary schools across the state. The program was initiated in 1989 with a generous $25,000 contribution by LS3P Architects to the Arts Commission through the South Carolina Arts Foundation. Although the initial gift was for a five-year program, LS3P Architects has since contributed $5,000 annually to continue the programs. During the 1997-98 school year, the Arts Commission will increase its support to the program to provide two additional residencies for a total of six two-week residencies.

Through this unique residency program, students learn first-hand about architecture and design. The visiting instructor is Victoria Christensen Hopkins, an architectural designer and educator who lives in Aiken. Ms. Hopkins is on the Arts Commission's Approved Artist Roster. She holds bachelors degrees in architecture and art history from Rice University and a master's degree in architecture from Yale University. In 1992, she was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship to study in Milan, Italy before going to Yale. Ms. Hopkins has worked for architecture firms in Los Angeles, Houston and South Carolina, and brings a wide range of experience to the classroom.

"My purpose is to introduce students to spatial design as well as to architecture. In the process, they learn to solve problems by completing three-dimensional projects. In this way, the children discover that there is often more than one way to arrive at a solution, and that working together with other classmates can service to enrich the solution process," Hopkins says.

LS3P has selected the following schools for the 1997-98 school year: Clinton Elementary (Laurens County); St. James/Gaillard Elementary (Orangeburg County); North Elementary (Lancaster County); Great Fall Elementary (Chester County); J. D. Lever Elementary (Aiken County); and, Williston-Elko Middle School (Barnwell County).

The Arts Commission annually sends information and applications for LS3P architecture and design residencies to principals of all South Carolina elementary schools. Deadline for application for the 1998-99 school year is April 1, 1998. Contact the Arts Commission for more information at 803/734-8696.

Arianne King-Corner of St. Helena Island (left) and B. Michael Williams of Rock Hill (right) conducted the first of this year's Community Arts Residencies at Rock Hill's downtown Center for the Arts.

Community Arts Residencies Celebrate the Arts!

At the South Carolina Arts Commission, we believe that the arts help build and strengthen communities. We also believe that experiencing the arts is a lifelong endeavor and pleasure.

Those are the guiding principles behind our Community Arts Residency Program. The program allows anyone within a sponsor's community, regardless of age, to work for four weeks with a professional artist.

In the past, the Arts Commission provided its mobile arts truck studios for residency activities. Now, artists conduct residencies in arts centers, recreation centers, housing authorities, libraries, churches, senior centers, nursing homes, prisons, businesses or a combination of sites.

This year, sponsors of Community Arts Residencies and their planned activities are:

- North August Cultural Arts Council (Aiken County) - Musicians will work with local groups to create songs and stories that reflect the culture of the area;
- Black Creek Arts Council (Darlington County) - An after-school theatre program for 7 to 12-year-olds will be held in collaboration with the Hartsville Community Players;
- Florence Area Arts Council (Florence County) - an architecture and design residency is planned to involve the community in renovation proposals for some of the downtown area's abandoned buildings;

- Fine Arts Center of Kershaw County (Kershaw County) - "Elder Stories: Youthful Voices" will pair senior citizens with high school students in a residency that records life stories, creates dances based on those stories, and films the process and end-product;

- Lancaster County Council of the Arts (Lancaster County) - This residency will conduct a photographic tour of places of worship and places of burial in ten communities in the county;

- McCormick Arts Council (McCormick County) - A collaborative photo exhibit will showcase arts workshops;

- Newberry Opera House Foundation (Newberry County) - An intergenerational memoir of the Newberry Opera House will be chronicled by the children of the county, as told to them by long-time residents.

- Rock Hill Arts Council (York County) - Adult and student art classes will focus attention on the new downtown Center for the Arts.

The next deadline for sponsor applications for Community Arts Residencies is April 1, 1998. For more information, contact the South Carolina Arts Commission, 1800 Gervais St., Columbia, SC 29201, 803/734-8696.

Design Arts Partnership Selects Projects For Fall

The South Carolina Design Arts Partnership has selected the following projects for implementation during the fall semester of 1997:

- Hatcher Botanical Gardens Master Plan, Spartanburg County Foundation;
- Downtown Revitalization Plan, Town of Elloree, Orangeburg County;
- Central Park South Landscape Plan, City of Darlington;
- Rehabilitation of Colonel Leroy Springs Mansion, Lancaster County Council of the Arts;
- USC-Aiken Landscape Plan and Athletic Complex, USC-Aiken;
- Downtown Plan, Industrial Park Improvements and Cultural Center, Barnwell County Economic Development Corporation.

The mission of the S.C. Design Arts Partnership, a project of the S.C. Arts Commission, Clemson University College of Architecture Arts and Humanities, and the S.C. Downtown Development Association, is to put quality design to work for the state by providing design assistance to revitalize downtowns, landscape entry corridors, improve signage and graphics, prepare innovative open space land plans, rehabilitate historic buildings, develop park and trail systems, and guide the growth of university campuses.

The South Carolina Design Arts Partnership began with the vision of the project founders: South Carolina Arts Commission, the South Carolina Downtown Development Association, and Clemson University.

The S.C. Arts Commission believed that design assistance and advocacy of the design arts could make a difference in South Carolina. The S.C. Downtown Development Association saw that with organized design assistance, Main Street programs and downtown development organizations could improved the quality of life across the state and create economic incentives.

Clemson University recognized the need to involve its students more broadly in community efforts and to develop new service resources for a strong network of extension field agents.

The Partnership chooses design projects carefully to insure that they represent leading edge research and do not have adequate funding support to pay normal professional design fees. Selected applicants contribute $500 to $5,000 to defray project expenses. Each client agrees in their contract to hire design professionals if they carry the project forward to implementation.

Deadline for applications for the Spring '98 semester is October 31, 1997. For guidelines, or more information, contact Robert W. Bainbridge, Director, South Carolina Design Arts Partnership, 129 Lee Hall, Clemson, SC 29634-0511, 864/656-7128. E-mail: bainbrr@mail.Clemson.edu.

The 1997-98 membership campaign is now underway for the South Carolina Presenters Network (SCPN), an organization made up of presenters from throughout the state.

From arts councils to festivals, this organization assists presenters of all types by offering specialized workshops; networking opportunities with colleagues, artists and artists' management; a centralized source for information on South Carolina presenters; offers assistance in negotiating discounts on artists fees by blockbooking with artists and spearheading communication among presenters.

One of the newest offerings is the SCPN List Serve, a means of instant communication that is accessed by e-mail. This is a great way for all presenters to share information quickly, help with blockbookings, share information regarding technical needs, etc. This service has unlimited access to members and is available at no charge to SCPN members.

Membership is only $25 per person/organization and offers discounts on workshops, subscription to SCPN newsletter and other mailings, access to SCPN List Serve, and much more.

To join the South Carolina Presenters Network, contact Karen Blankenship, SCPN Chair, 803/324-8803; e-mail: karenb@infoave.net; FAX 324-8200.

You can find out more about Yvette McDaniel (above) and the other Community Tour artists by contacting the South Carolina Arts Commission at 734-8696 for a booking brochure.

Three New Sites Join ABC Program

Congratulations to McCants Elementary School (Richland District 1), Stone Academy of Communication Arts (Greenville) and Millbrook Elementary School (Aiken) who successfully competed for funding for the Arts in Basic Curriculum (ABC) Advancement Category of the South Carolina Arts Commission's Arts Education Initiatives grants this past spring.

Applicants prepare a long-range plan for improving arts education in their school or district and then describe in detail which goals they will work toward during the two-year grant period.

Millbrook Elementary will focus on adding dance and drama programs. Stone Academy will focus on artist residencies across all disciplines and professional development for teachers. McCants Elementary will adopt a similar focus with a particular emphasis on multi-cultural aspects and integrating arts into after-school programs as a way to make more intensive arts experiences accessible to all students.

L. C. Carson's "Concrete City," 1979, can be seen in the "Still Worth Keeping" exhibit at the S. C. State Museum October 18-March 8, 1998.

"Still Worth Keeping" Explores Self-taught Artists

Cities made of tin cans, flowing topiaries, miniature replicas of famous buildings -- all express the creativity, and the resourcefulness, of artists who work without the benefit of academic art training.

The work of such artists, and what it means to their communities, will be explored beginning Oct. 18 when the South Carolina State Museum, in cooperation with Winthrop University Galleries, presents the exhibit "Still Worth Keeping: Communities, Preservation and Self-taught Artists."

Organized in three sections, "Still Worth Keeping" looks at self-taught artists in the state, in the region and around the world.

The first section revisits the exhibit "Worth Keeping: Found Artists of the Carolinas," which Tom Stanley curated at the Columbia Museum of Art in 1981. The second section will take a regional look at the work of 10 self-taught artists. The third section is the exhibit, "Self-Made Worlds: Visionary Folk Art Environments" curated by Mark Sloan of the College of Charleston and Roger Manley of N. C. State University.

"Still Worth Keeping" will extend beyond the museum's wall. On the front lawn will be wooden "critters" created by Clyde Jones of Bynum, NC, and "Heart Within a Heart," a 20-by-18 foot topiary by Pearl Fryar of Bishopville, SC.

Between Oct. 3 and Nov. 21, Winthrop University Galleries will offer a companion exhibit, Still Worth Keeping in South Carolina: Planes, Chairs and Super Stars curated by Paul Matheny of the Museum of York County.

Selected works from this exhibit and the Winthrop Galleries exhibit will travel to a number of other sites across South Carolina.

For more information, call the S. C. State Museum at 803/737-4952.
